EL OCOTILLO

As the dawn brings forth the promise of a new and eventful day, so the beginning of the school year marked a new era in the education of students in Alpine. Spotlight on, the curtain arose. The actors began to take their places on the stage of life. Coming from near and far, students joined hearts to produce a dramatic and inspiring play of knowledge. Some were chosen as our leading ladies and gentlemen, others took their smaller, yet still important roles.

For props and sound effects, you chose school spirit, accomplishments, creativeness, and an insatiable hunger for learning. Your wardrobe was your building; and your overture "The Alma Mater." Together, you learned your lines, rehearsed your parts, and finally - together - you successfully executed your story.

From the very first day of registration to graduation night, you strived to gain a broad insight of life. With the conception that you were a part of a new and expanding world, you took every advantage to grow with your environment. If you fell, you quickly regained your poise and gait - always pressing forward.

Now the curtain rises to present your life in Alpine High School, a year of learning, accomplishments, and fun.

This 1964 EL OCOTILLO is dedicated to you, the student of Alpine High School. You are the reason for the existence of this school, just as you are the reason for this yearbook.

It represents your joys and your triumphs, the routine schedules and the daily goals that you attain step by step, the fun and the brief goals that you

Your yearbook is a book "of you" - - it is a record of your learning, your activities, your organizations, your sports, your classmates, your campus life, and your community which backs you. It is "by you", for what you did with your year constitutes the very substance of this book. It is "for

The administration and faculty of Alpine High School represent the hub of the wheel of school life. About them revolves the ever-progressing world of knowledge, understanding, and truth, and it is they who must pass on this torch of learning to their students.

Serving as administrators, the school board determines school policy and makes the rules that govern the students, and thus has a certain share in the development of character. The superintendent passes on these policies to the faculty and students, acting as an intermediary. The principal presides at faculty meetings and acts as the faculty's leader and spokesman. Finally, the teachers themselves, those who are closest to the students, present facts, theories, and opinions to develop and educate young minds.

Throughout history, certain teachers have come to be revered in the eyes of the world; may the teachers of Alpine High School, to the best of their ability, continue this tradition.

YOU and YOUR ADMINISTRATION

School Board links community with education.

Superintendent Jack Frost and School Board members Ed Foley, Robert Halpern, Secretary; Sylvia Forchheimer, William Sohl, President; Pete Gallego, Neville Haynes, Vice President; and Billy Holland met regularly each month to determine school policy.

A close-knit body of Alpine citizens dedicated to the support of educational growth - this is the School Board. Keeping in firm contact with the people of Alpine, these industrious members are able to solicit the needed cooperation of the townspeople.

Under the capable leadership of Mr. William Sohl, the hard-working group which last year gave generously of time and effort to engineer the plan for the rejuvenation of Alpine schools, approved the innovation of an accelerated plan of study for more advanced students. Another time-consuming item is the planning of a balanced budget on which to operate the entire school district.

Through such projects, the School Board works toward the progress and in the interest of Alpine and its citizens.

A dedicated community servant, Mr. Sohl served as President of the Board.

Mr. Frost initiates accelerated courses at A.H.S.

An integral part of the Alpine Public Schools system, Superintendent Jack Frost began his third year in Alpine last September. As administrative head and with the support of the School Board, Mr. Frost initiated several improvements this year. He inaugurated an accelerated program of study in English and mathematics, organized a new basketball tournament for "B" team boys, and established an intramural tournament for elementary students in basketball. An annual Science Fair instituted by Mr. Frost was enlarged this year and received wide acclaim in West Texas. All these things are in keeping with Mr. Frost's belief in emphasis on the academic as well as the extracurricular activities.

New grass was added to each school campus along with other general improvements. Alpine can be justly proud of the cleanliness of school buildings.

The year was also personally successful for Mr. Frost, in that he was selected to Who's Who in American Education and was elected Vice President of the Alpine Chamber of Commerce.

His Motto: the students' welfare

Mr. Roy D. Worley is new to our school system this year, but by no means new to the teaching profession. As a native Texan, he attended high school in Jacksboro and Graford, and received his Bachelor of Science in 1936 from Southwest Texas State College.

Mr. Worley taught Business Education in the college during the summers and his Senior Year while studying toward a Master of Arts degree which he received in 1940. Business Administration and Administrative Education were his two majors. He taught and coached in Ballinger and Sinton, and went to Big Spring as Assistant Principal. After two years in this position, he was elevated to Principal and held this office for ten years. He was District Manager for World Book Encyclopedia for the three years before he came to Alpine.

Mr. Worley was an instructor in the Air Force from July of 1942 until December of 1944 when he received his discharge at Pyote Army Field. Upon returning to Ballinger from Pyote, Mr. Worley and his father-in-law were engaged in professional baseball, owning franchises at Ballinger and Roswell, New Mexico.

While in Ballinger, he married the former Helen Moore. The Worleys have three sons, Mike, twenty-one, a junior at the University of Texas; Bill, eighteen, a Senior in high school, and Bob, sixteen, a sophomore.

Office personnel renders efficient performance.

Mrs. Katherine Stucke, school secretary, proves her competence as she aids Mr. Frost in carrying out various and sundry duties of the school office.

Mr. A. J. Joyce serves our school in an indispensable position as School Tax Collector and Disbursing Officer.

Indispensable to the functioning of any school system are the people who are in charge of conducting the administrative and clerical duties.

Mrs. Rinehart performs the countless tasks necessary to the smooth operation of the principal's office.

Custodians care for classrooms, grounds.

Long before 8:30 a. m. , when the halls of AHS once more echo with the banging of lockers and the shuffling feet of a sea of students, the custodians of our school are busy turning on boilers to provide heat for another day of learning. Long after the last student has returned to his locker for a forgotten book, or concluded a conference with one of his instructors, these men remain, cleaning the halls, washing the blackboards, making repairs, emptying wastebaskets, cleaning the grounds - in short, readying A. H. S. for a new day of study. And with that tomorrow, their work begins anew. They are the men, behind the scenes, who keep the buildings operable.

Frank Cobos busily makes repairs about the school.

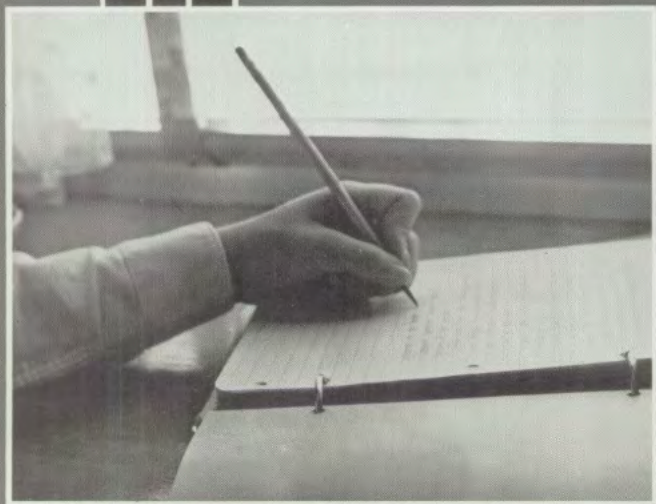

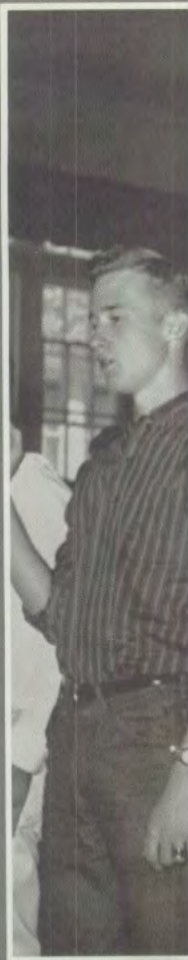

Juan Gonzales helps to keep the halls of A. H. S. spotless.

Ermelindo Hinojos pauses during the daily tidying of the school campus.

"A cultivated mind is the guardian genius of democracy and, while guided and controlled by virtue, the noblest attribute of man." In these words is embodied the very essence of a school's purpose. What better place exists to cultivate a mind than the classrooms of an institution dedicated to the furtherance of knowledge? What better reason is there for being in these classrooms than to seek the answers to ever-present questions?

Here, in classrooms throughout the land, is the youth of our nation. Inspired by their teachers, textbooks, and current affairs toward the eternal quest for knowledge and truth, they prepare themselves for lives of service to God, to their country, and to their fellow men.

YOU and YOUR CLASSES

FRESHMEN

For Freshmen, the curtain of time begins to draw back, revealing the unique elements of high school life to the young novices. Slowly, steadily throughout the year, this curtain continues its upward motion as the tenderfeet begin to learn, to lead, and to serve.

SENIORS

For the Seniors the curtain of time is completely raised. Such a short time ago, it seems, the curtain concealed the manifold experiences of high school life. Gradually the curtain was raised, and the days of work and fun became the years which will always be fondly remembered by these students.

A day in Alpine High School

At 8:30 a. m. on almost every week-day for nine months of the year, approximately 300 eager scholars pass through the portals of A. H. S. They remain at school for six hours or more of carefully-ordered study and recreation. This regimen of reading, writing, and playing is divided into six class periods, each an hour long. The serenity of study is broken only by five-minute intervals between classes, during which pandemonium reigns. In pandemonium or serenity a good education is the net result at A. H. S. for those who desire it.

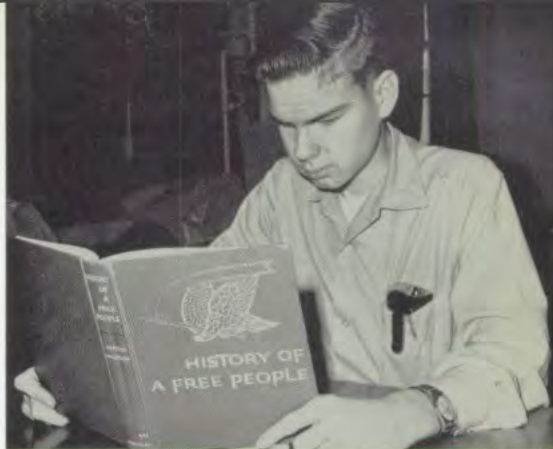

Not all of a student's time at A. H. S. is devoted to the pursuit of academic enrichment. In most cases at least one full year of study involves learning a practical skill. Boys usually study V. A. or Mechanical Drawing. Girls often choose from typing, H. E., and shorthand. An A. H. S. education prepares one not only for college but also for life.

America is deeply immersed in what future historians will probably call the Age of Technology. The era presents a challenge. The physical and natural sciences are offered by three separate departments - Biology, Chemistry and Physics. AHS's new chemistry and biology labs, since their rejuvenation in 1963, provide ample facilities for the science program. Thus, in a changing world, AHS provides new and better tools for scientific education.

A. H. S.'s Foreign Language Department offers a boon to the prospective linguist as well as to the prospective college candidate. The available curriculum offers two years each of Spanish and French, which involve mastering written as well as spoken forms. Since two years of credit in a foreign language are a prerequisite to entering many colleges, students are encouraged to utilize the language program sooner or later.

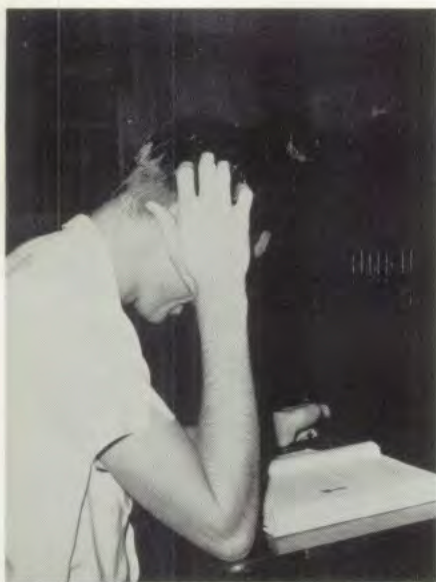

An A. H. S. student turns not only to the future for inspiration and insight, but also to the past. The foundation of human civilization, the growth of mankind, and the birth and development of American democracy form the basis of the courses offered by the Social Science Department. World, American, and Texas Histories acquaint students with the people and events of mankind's creative past, and Civics deals with American government.

Progresses . . .

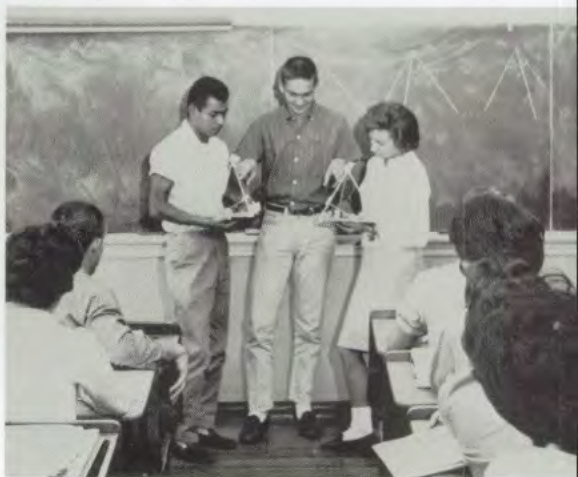

The doors to wisdom are opened by the manifold books in the A. H. S. library. Available to students in 1964 were 3900 books covering many ranges of subjects from astronomy to zoology. A library is an essential educational tool; at A. H. S. it is not only a luxury but also an integral part of the day's activities.

English provides the tools for communication and expression. The young man or woman who graduates from A. H. S. has been given the opportunity to master the English language. For four years all students are given a well-integrated course combining grammar with American and English literature. Accelerated classes study more advanced works. All English courses are geared to the college hopeful with attention to preparation for college entrance examinations.

Few people graduate from A. H. S. without spending a good part of their time in mathematics courses. The sophomore generally learns the mechanics of plane geometry; the junior usually encounters his second year of algebra. Seniors often take solid geometry the first semester and are offered a half credit for trigonometry. A beginning course in solid is integrated into the new plane geometry texts.

Each school day at three-thirty a final bell rings, signalling the end of another six hours of A. H. S. -style education. For the more than three hundred teenagers who pass through the school's doors on their way home, this signals also the beginning of many hours of academic and extracurricular homework. In truth, the end of the day merely marks the beginning of a short respite, a recess, in a continual process of learning.

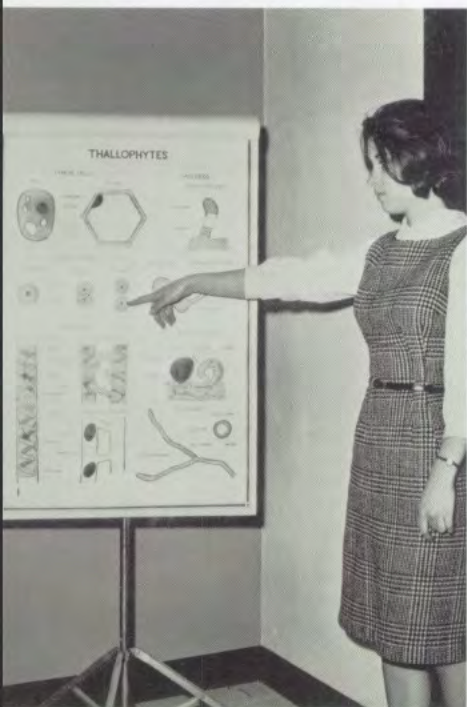

Who's Who, 1963-1964

Students who are deemed worthy of acclaim in various areas of academic achievements, each year are selected to appear in the Who's Who section of the yearbook.

On the basis of scholarship, citizenship, and leadership these select few are chosen by faculty committees in the several subject areas.

El Paso's loss is A. H. S. 's gain as is proven by the fact that LINDA BIRSCHWALE was selected as 1964's ace biology student.

In addition to meriting the praise of the Girls' P. E. Department, ELISA ESPINOSA also serves as President of F. H. A. , and is one of A. H. S. 's peppiest cheerleaders.

For the 2nd consecutive year, PHYLLIS AVANT has been chosen outstanding scholar in advanced English. Her adeptness in coining the perfect phrase has served her well as editor of EL OCOTILLO.

Honorees are as versatile as DAVID FORCHHEIMER'S admirable leadership abilities and his willingness to use them for the benefit of A. H. S. students has led to his designation as Outstanding Senior Boy.

Effervescent JULIE FORCHHEIMER has earned recognition for her high achievements in English II.

National Honor Society member BOBBY GLASSCOCK, for his thorough knowledge of history and the workings of government, receives the commendations of the Social Science Department.

Diligent practice and flawless performance by RONNIE HUNTER have made him the 1964 Band Who's Who nominee.

West Texas weather.

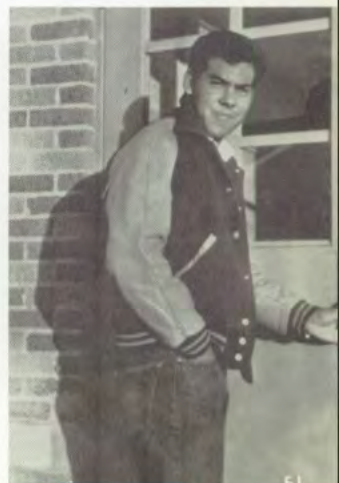

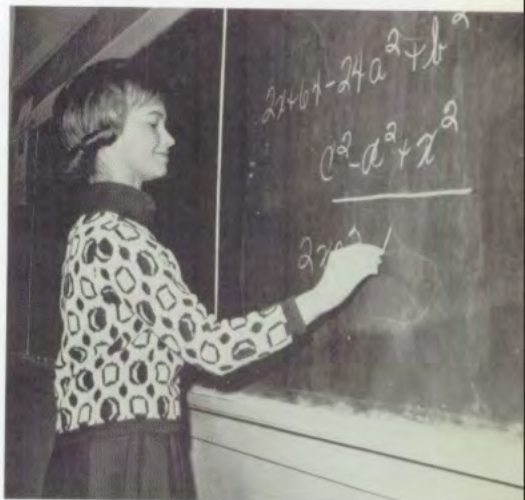

LARRY JOHNSON'S talents are not confined to his phenomenal scientific knowledge. This versatile Senior also serves as National Honor Society President, and is a member of A. H. S.'s debating team.

Top-notch athlete, ELIJIO LEYVA, is worthy of the many accolades he has received this year. Besides being the recipient of Who's Who honors in Boys' P. E., he was also named All-District Back and selected for the all West-Texas football team.

JEANETTE KELCH'S knack for deciphering the complexities of accelerated Algebra have earned for her the honor of Who's Who in basic mathematics.

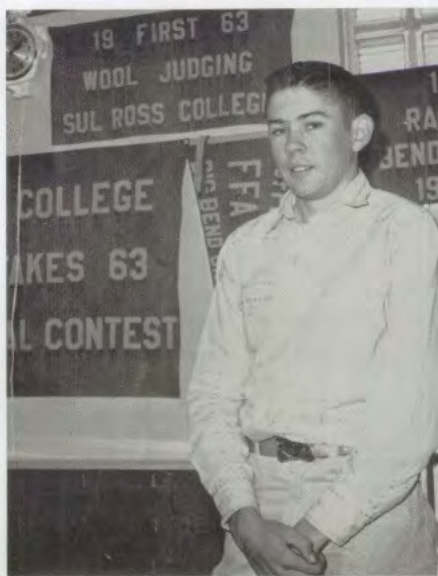

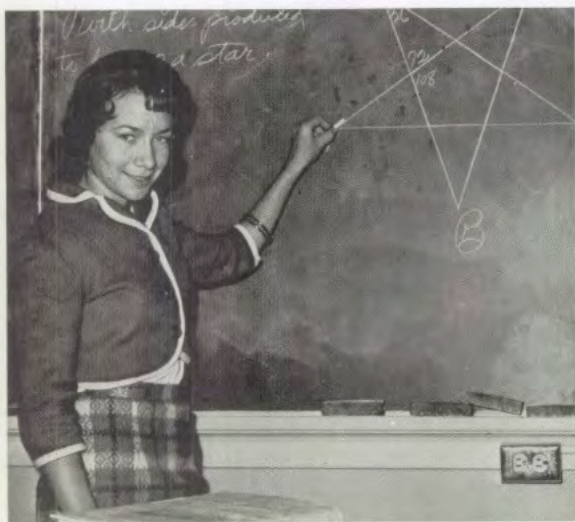

Who's Who are key factors in school life equation.

JEAN ANN LOW, 1964's number one Business student, sets the pace for the high standards of this department.

Pentagons, hexagons, and other polygons do not despair DAVELYN MCGILL. Her sincere attitude and interest in the subject of Plane Geometry rendered her the faculty's choice as Who's Who in advanced Mathematics.

LARRY MILLS' participation and understanding of Vocational Agriculture attained for him acclaim in this subject area.

Student Council President, MARGARET MORROW, with her excellent leadership abilities and all-round scholastic endeavor has been selected as Outstanding Senior Girl.

ROCHELLE SOHL'S estimable effort and praiseworthy accomplishment in linguistics led to her being chosen as the Foreign Language Who's Who.

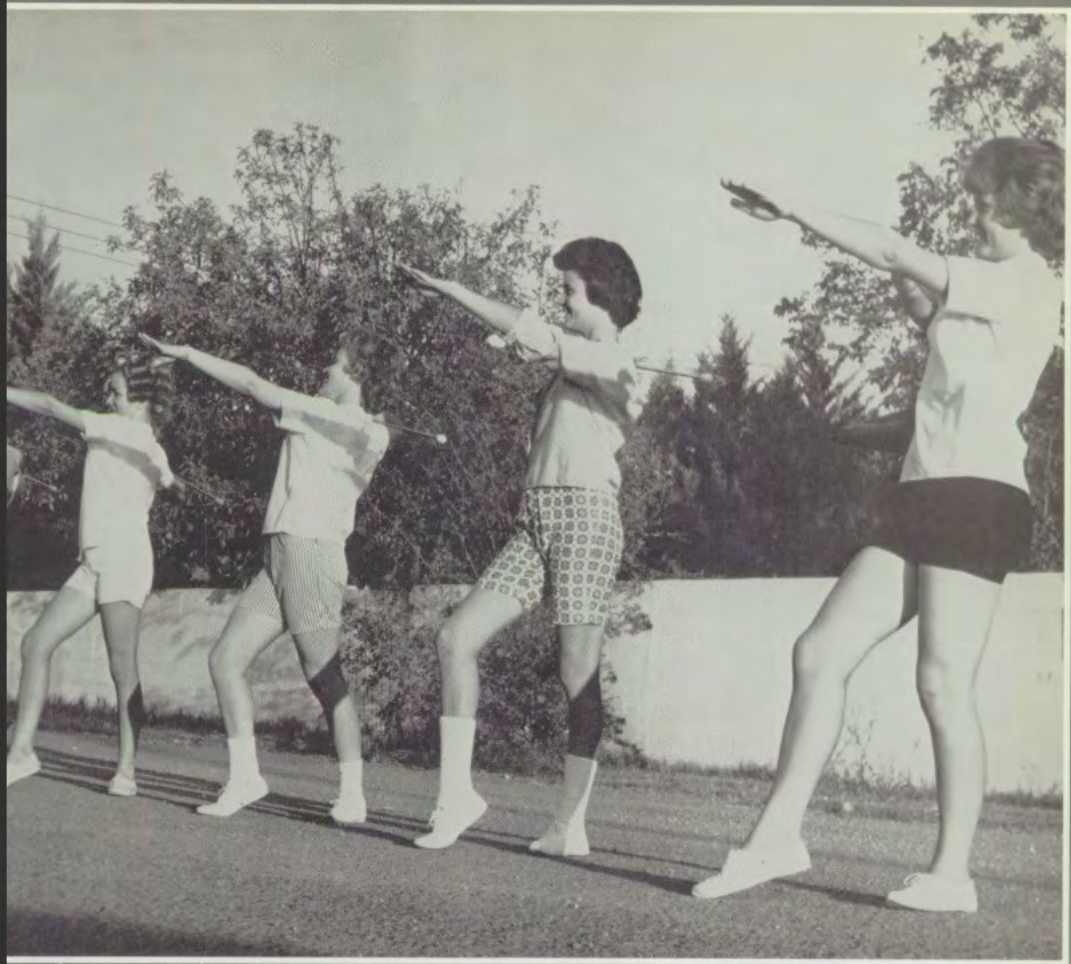

DINA SUE TURNER'S enthusiastic approach and diligent work as El Toro editor has earned for her the journalistic laurels.

CANDY WESTON has been chosen as the first lady of the Homemaking Department for her proficiency at the sewing machine and in the kitchen.

A textbook is very useful and necessary for the education of a mind. But a mind which has absorbed only those facts which are found in textbooks could hardly be called an educated mind. A balance must be gained from other types of experiences. In the same way, a student, the total realm of whose interests lies within the six-hour class day, is never as educated or well-rounded as one who adds to routine classwork the joys and experiences of extracurricular activities, competition, and service to the school. These activities shine far above the ordinary beaten path. They are living, vital expressions of Alpine High School's enthusiasm and love of life.

YOU and YOUR ACTIVITIES

Long rehearsals, tedious drills resulted in

From the first night on the gridiron to the last concert, Buck Band performances thrilled football fans and music lovers alike. The precision of marching drills and the euphonious quality of concert pieces brought praise and appreciation from the entire community.

The beginning of a full and active year saw band students learning new marches and practicing military drills for the first half-time show. A paved practice field, made possible by the diligent work and generous contributions of the Band Boosters, facilitated band members in polishing performances, and also served as a parking lot during home games.

In addition to rehearsing for football games, the band also served by supplying spirited marches and twirling routines to step up the pace of pep rallies.

Marching practice began in the latter part of August and terminated in December with the Interscholastic League Marching Contest.

Spring activities included the presentation of concerts for the A. H. S. students, for Central and Centennial grade schools, for the Lions and Rotary Clubs, and for the entire community.

In March the band journeyed once more to Odessa to participate in the Interscholastic League Concert and Sight Reading Contest and Student Conducting Contest. Thus, under the capable direction of Mr. James Banks, the A. H. S. band served to promote a community-wide appreciation of music.

Cheerleaders, pep squad boost A.H.S. brawl

Vim, vigor and vitality are the words to describe AHS's cheering section. The lusty yells of the pep squad and cheerleaders fill every silence during an athletic event and urge the Bucks to victory.

Annual Staff puts year in print

Selection of a theme and a cover was the first stage in the metamorphosis of the 1964 EL OCOTILLO.

The second week in August found Editor Phyllis Avant and Assistant Editor Julie Forchheimer at year-book workshop at Texas Tech in Lubbock, absorbing new ideas for layouts and copy. In early September, work was begun on the advertising section. As the school year progressed and activity increased, the yearbook photographer and staff also accelerated their activity. They worked steadily to meet deadlines in October, December, January, and February.

Goals were set even higher after the 1963 EL OCOTILLO was awarded a first place gold trophy by the West Texas High School Press Association year-book judges and a second place certificate by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, Columbia University, New York.

Julie Forchheimer, Assistant Editor; Mrs. Boysen, Sponsor; and Phyllis Avant, Editor-in-Chief spent long hours amassing pictures, layout ideas, and engraving copy to produce the final result, the 1964 EL OCOTILLO.

Unending toil produces top-notch paper

The first of September saw industrious El Toro staffers out to sell a record percentage of subscriptions to A.H.S.,-ers. In the effort to increase sales, the staff presented a highly successful skit starring "El Toro," the bull. Student appreciation of the paper resulted in a more diligent attempt to better last year's periodical, which received second place in the West Texas High School Press Association competition. A notable innovation of this year's staff was the giving of the first press banquet to be held in A.H.S.

The El Toro staff sponsored a press banquet to honor members of the paper and annual staffs.

Editor Dina Sue Turner and sponsor Mr. Dal Herring proofread the final draft of a regular issue of El Toro.

Interscholastic League draws talents

Ready-writers, under the direction of Mrs. Sutton, have an opportunity to develop their creative-writing abilities.

Journalism entrants must toil ceaselessly to measure up to stiff Region VIII competition. Mr. Herring sponsors these students.

A. H. S. spellers practice daily on U. I. L. word lists. Jeanne Williams is director of this event.

The ability to speak extemporaneously on current topics is the aim of these students. Miss Whiteside coaches this event.

U. I. L. Science contestants are required to be well read on scientific material to compete in the U. I. L. contest. Mrs. Woodruff and Mrs. Williams guide these students.

Participants

A.H.S. students are encouraged to participate in U.I.L. events, and for the past seventeen years have emerged victorious in league competition.

Number sense and slide rule contestants, under the guidance of Miss Weyerts, have established an enviable record in U.I.L. competition.

"Resolved that Social Security benefits should be extended to include complete medical care" is the topic A.H.S. debaters must probe this year. Miss Whiteside gives them able direction.

Poetry readers and persuasive speakers are instructed by Mr. Slover.

Nimble fingers and agile brains are a prerequisite in Mrs. Boysen's shorthand.

A.H.S. typists strive for accuracy and speed.

Organizations play a vital role in the life of Alpine High School. They make what might be considered a greater impact on the students' realization of a true democracy than any other single element, for it is through serving as an officer or as a dedicated member of these organizations that one learns the value of the right to vote. It is through serving on committees and working hard for special projects that one realizes his duty to serve mankind.

Organizations are that element which most clearly evokes the best talents and special interests of each individual and helps to channel these toward a productive end. In short, they serve as the promoters of democracy through the development of character, leadership and service.

foreign exchange program at A.H.S.

Early last year the members of the Student Council industriously began work on money-making projects to raise sufficient funds in order to bring a foreign exchange student to A. H. S. With the assistance of the Rotary Club and the support of the community, the project met with success.

This year the Student Council met regularly every Tuesday morning to plan and carry out projects worthwhile to the school. The group sponsored Homecoming, County Government, a Valentine Dance, a Talent Show, the candy machine, and the selling of football programs.

Claude Guillemet: a Frenchman in Texas

Coming to Texas and Alpine High School from Toulouse, France, Claude Guillemet brought with him a part of his country to share with AHS students.

After an August arrival, he was soon acquainted with high school students, and immediately and wholeheartedly plunged into the many and varied activities of AHS's extracurricular program.

Everyone became accustomed to his cheerful face and delightful accent, and thus, in effect, Claude came to the United States as a French ambassador of good will.

I want to thank with all my heart, all of you, students and teachers of Alpine High School, for this unique and wonderful chance you gave me, to live this year in the United States. It has been such an exciting year for me, full of new experiences, of interesting things to do, to learn, to build. I wish sincerely, that my presence here would have brought you as much of my country, as I take back with me about yours; and especially You, Alpine, and You, Texas, that I will never forget.

Quill and Scroll stimulates journalistic endeavor.

Since its origin in 1926, Quill and Scroll, the international honorary society for high school journalists, has influenced the lives of students the world over. To encourage and reward individual achievement in journalism and school publications has ever been the goal of the society.

High standards are rigidly maintained - students must be approved by the club for their interest and ability in journalistic work, and for their character and scholarship. Thus, membership is a coveted honor for the individual student. Members of the society make use of their talents through the publication of the school paper, El Toro, and the year-book, El Ocotillo.

Officers of Quill and Scroll are Candy Weston, Secretary-Treasurer; Phyllis Avant, President; Camille Connor, Vice President; and Dina Sue Turner, Reporter.

For leadership, scholarship, and service . . .

With candles lighted from character, scholarship, leadership, and service, new members intently listen as Margaret Morrow delivers her address.

Slowly, in step to the stately processional, blue-robed National Honor Society members walked down the central aisle of a darkened auditorium to the stage. This scene, formal and impressive, was part of the induction ceremony of the A. H. S. Chapter of N. H. S. The installation takes place each semester after students have been elected to membership by the faculty on the basis of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Speeches explaining the ideals of the society are delivered by the charter members to the candidates.

Last year the organization for the first time raised money for a $50 scholarship, which was awarded to a senior. Projects this year include plans to purchase collars for the graduating seniors and to again provide a scholarship.

Besides encouraging members in their teaching interests, the F. T. A. performed other functions around school this year. They added to the Christmas Spirit by sponsoring a door decoration contest. They also made plans for a Twirp-Week and a Back-to-School night.

An integral part of any school is the student life that accompanies the academic program. It is here that the heart of fun, excitement, and gaiety can be found. Though the classroom serves as the focal point, action is not confined to this center, and school life takes on an added dimension when learning is coupled with dances, money-making projects, athletic events, pep rallies, and all the other extra-added attractions.

Throughout the year, elections are held wherein the sweethearts, favorites, and the queen are chosen. A coronation is staged for the recognition of the members of the court. Other students enter contests, perfect projects, plan assembly programs, and work on such things as County Government Week. These students who have achieved recognition through individual participation in various endeavors, are also to be commended.

Herein, so to speak, is a pictorial record of your extra-classroom activities.

Coronation recalls "Musical Memories"

The Freshman class elected pert Josie Ortiz as their duchess. She chose Ricardo Leyva as her escort.

The Sophomore vote went to winsome Rosie Melgoza, who chose Rudy Olazaba to escort her.

The royal court was composed of dukes and duchesses from grade school and junior high, and class duchesses, campus favorites, club sweethearts, and the king and queen from high school.

Depicting the Junior image, Palmer Coats was escorted by Johnny Carpenter.

The Senior Princess was pretty Camille Connor, who chose Bill Stovell as her escort.

The title of coronation queen was awarded this year to Donna Lynn Mueller. Chosen from the Senior Class by the entire student body, Queen Donna chose as her theme "Musical Memories."

The gym was decorated with a potpourri of musical notes and instruments, and amid the glitter and glamour of the occasion, the royal retinue was presented. The climax of the event was the crowning of the queen by Superintendent Frost. The program consisted of musical selections from the 1920's, 1940's, 1950's and 1960's. Following the grand march by the royal court, a dance was enjoyed by AHS-ers.

September sees the surge

The coming of September means different things to different people. For the Freshmen, it is the start of a new phase of education; for the Sophomores it is, perhaps, just another school year.

School had hardly begun before Mrs. Boysen's Shorthand students began the seemingly impossible task of learning a new set of hieroglyphics.

Shortly before school began, our exchange student, Claude Guillemet, arrived and was greeted by numerous AHS students and his U. S. family, the Doyle Vincents.

Donna Mueller and Jacobina Skinner introduce a visiting twirler to the Alpine Buck Band.

Industrious Juniors take advantage of the home-football games to earn Prom funds at the concessions stand.

of life anew at AHS

The Juniors see ahead of them a year of hard work and endless planning to stage the Junior-Senior Prom. And the Seniors see the months ahead and the climax of graduation as a turning point in their lives. Yet, for all of them, it represents a beginning again.

The rebirth of September activities are manifold, and those pictured on these two pages are but a sample of a wide and varied range.

Coach Boyd speaks of the Bucks' chances of breaking into the win column at a Friday pep rally.

Seniors Larry Johnson, Margaret Morrow, Donna Mueller and Benny Wright enjoy one of the weekly Friday-night gatherings at the Alpine Country Club.

AHS's "candid camerawoman" is caught by the annual staff's "candid cameraman."

During half-time shows the AHS Buck band displayed a marching and playing performance which earned them raves from the home-town fans.

Freshmen earn their place at A.H.S.

"A"-day has been a long-standing tradition at A. H. S., for it is on this day that the freshmen, beginning their first year, are initiated and obtain the recognition as accepted members of the student body. It is a dreaded time from the first grade on, and yet when it actually arrives, students find it isn't so bad, and in future days, they will recall the paint, molasses, raw eggs, and the climb to the "A" as one of their fondest memories.

"Ugh-messy." Freshman girls try to wipe off part of the paint and molasses as they timorously await the next attack.

Their mops and pails ready, the Freshmen prepare for the hike through town to "A" mountain.

From their vantage point above the "A" Senior Buddy Theophilus and band director James Banks stand guard to see that initiates do the job right.

Diane Headrick helps her classmates pull weeds to clear the interior of the newly whitewashed letter A.

Frenchman Claude Guillemet looks rather puzzled at this new development - the initiation of all new A. H. S. -ers. Here he receives the "treatment" from senior Donna Mueller.

Freshmen hit the ground as Seniors yelled, "Air raid!"

Halloween fun brings a fountain o

The Drama Club's Halloween presentation of "The Mystery of the Locked Room" was a "howling" success.

Coach Jerry Burleson takes his son Kent for a donkey ride, a carnival attraction sponsored by the Sophomores.

There were plenty of screams in the House of Horrors as George Price discovered for himself.

With the impending arrival of Halloween, A. H. S. becomes a frenzied arena of action. Classes and clubs alike desperately try to think of new money-making booths and to arrange work schedules.

Excitement continues to build until 5 o'clock on October 31st, when A. H. S. is transformed into a teeming carnival. At last all is over; the gym is cleaned up, and the treasurers deposit their monetary gains in the bank.

Financial reward to A.H.S. clubs, classes.

Band Members Archie Clouse and Pat LeMasters help set up the Country Store Booth.

Talented vocalists Sissy Holman and Peggy Vincent contributed much to the Thanksgiving Program.

"Service with a smile" is offered by Mary Sims at the Junior spaghetti supper.

Our canine student, Bodie Boyd, had an almost perfect attendance record.

Homecoming royalty receives red roses.

Band Sweetheart Phyllis Avant and escort Buddy Theophilus move off the field to the tune of "Girl of My Dreams."

The tension of the homecoming game was temporarily eased at halftime, as the queen and sweethearts, with their escorts, were introduced and presented with bouquets by Superintendent Jack Frost. Homecoming Queen for the Exes was Mrs. Jim Casner, who was also presented with her escort, Mr. Guy Crawford.

Then it was back to the taut contest that left in its wake some shattered nerves, but for Alpine no shattered dreams. In a special effort for the occasion, the Bucks topped Sonora 6 - 0.

After the game an informal dance was held at the Country Club, a fitting climax for a memorable night.

Football Sweetheart Candy Weston waves to viewers at the Homecoming Parade.

Superintendent Jack Frost presents F. F. A. Sweetheart Lee Short with a dozen red roses as escort Johnny Carpenter looks on.

"Wing-dings," in varying shades, decorated the feet of A.H.S. Coeds this year.

Somewhere there is a perpetual fountain from which flow the most fantastically odd creations called "fads." Most fads have no meaning or purpose for being, but they capture the imagination of all students. We couldn't begin to picture all the fads which have invaded A.H.S. this year, but we submit herewith a bird's-eye view.

In style for a while . . .

This is the beginning (believe it or not!) of the bouffant hair-do most favored at A.H.S.

A.H.S.-ers display terpsichorean ability at school dances.

Bubble gum, a twist album, a telephone and a football jersey - a teenager's Utopia.

Students and faculty alike posted season's greetings to others on a special bulletin board.

With contributions from the entire student body, a western coat and cowboy boots were bought for foreign exchange student Claude Guillemet as his Christmas gift.

A gigantic Christmas card bade holiday cheer to A. H. S., -ers.

"Santa Claus" Worley tossed gifts of candy to the students at the Christmas program.

Christmas is a long-awaited occasion at A. H. S. for the student body is more than ready to welcome the brief respite from the lessons and homework of school. The spirit of the season is infectious and holiday preparations leave few undecorated nooks. The Freshman Christmas tree lights the stage, doors are decorated throughout the building, and Mr. Worley even puts up a tree in his office.

Christmas carols, the Freshman program, and doors trimmed in greenery and tinsel - these mean that the Yuletide season has come to call.

The Freshmen's "live" creche lent an atmosphere of peace and holiness as ancient carols were sung by all.

Freshman vocalists, Mary Bell Lockhart, Debbie Boyesen, Margaret Rains, Jeanette Kelch, and Dora Alice Matthews, led the student body in singing Christmas songs.

Unheralded holidays, bring joy & cheer to A.H.S.

The Seniors' door rated a second place in the F. T. A. door decoration contest with a depiction of Mr. Worley as Santa.

Mr. Worley enjoyed eating Christmas goodies and got into the spirit of the season by decorating his own tree.

County Government week was officially opened by the Student Council with the presentation of colors, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. Margaret Morrow, Student Council President, then called the first session to order.

Activities of the week included the purchase of a poll tax, the writing of party platforms, filing for city and county offices, campaigning, voting, and finally participation day on Saturday to climax the program.

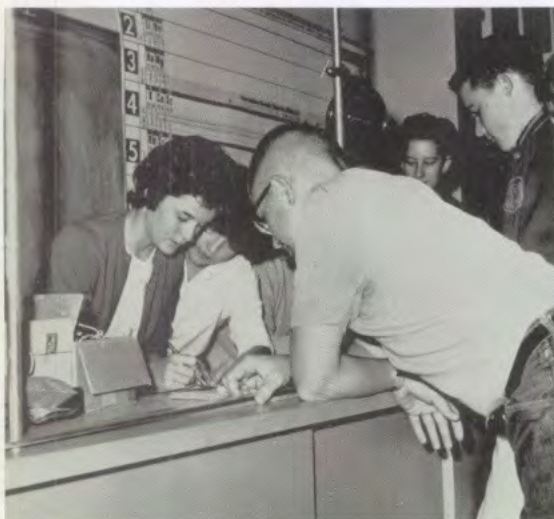

The program on participation day included each elected officer meeting with his corresponding county official to become acquainted with the duties of his office. Then in the afternoon a court trial was held to prosecute "law-breakers."

Superintendent Jack Frost phones the good news to Alpine's radio station after Mrs. Boysen, Phyllis Avant, and he journeyed to Lubbock to accept the first place trophy for the 1963 EL OCOTILLO.

Candy Weston was the proud recipient of the Crisco award for the most outstanding student in home-making.

Tony Green, Benny Wright, Tim Davis, Phyllis Avant, Margaret Morrow, and Donna Mueller journeyed to the state capital last summer to attend the sessions in government offered by the Boys and Girls State programs. The students were selected on the basis of scholarship and leadership contributions, patriotism, and character.

Shown as rewards are reaped.

Phyllis Avant was awarded a letter of commendation for placing in the top 2% of high school seniors who took the National Merit Scholarship Test

Twirlers Debbie Boysen, Palmer Coats, and Jacobina Skinner won a first division rating with their solo routines in the Interscholastic League contest.

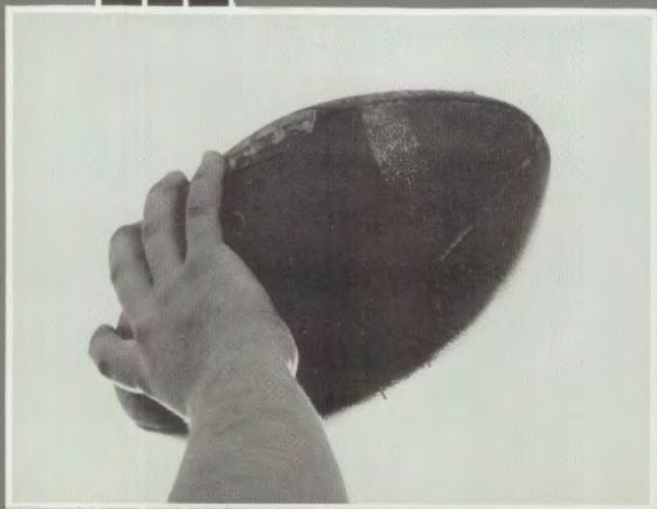

The F. F. A. radio team, composed of Rick Dawkins, Mike Edmonson, and Johnny Carpenter, won third place in state competition.

Senior Donna Mueller was awarded the DAR good citizenship pin for her outstanding contributions to her school and community.

The A. H. S. tradition of athletics is participation. Not only the A-team athletes, but also much of the general student body, participate in AHS sports. Many boys begin a rigorous season with football, continue with basketball, and terminate the year by spending muscle and verve in various track events. For girls the athletic program offers tumbling, basketball, volleyball, and tennis. But even more than this, participation lies in the spirit of the students. They support the school with their interest and loyalty as much as with their participation.

With the year's end, the record of the '63-'64 sports year will stand as history - a memorial to students who gave of their time, energy, and effort to "do" for their school. This history will continue to live, in its brief flashes of glory and triumph, in the hearts and minds of players and spectators alike.

YOU and YOUR SPORTS

Bucks finish season with 6-4 record.

Asst. coach Jerry Burselson and head coach Joe Boyd proved to be a successful coaching team when the Bucks wrapped up the season with the best record in several years.

With only seconds remaining in the game, the scoreboard proclaims the fighting Bucks victors over the Van Horn Eagles.

Beginning the '63 season with two losses, the Alpine Bucks astonished fans by ending a four year losing streak to finish with six wins and four losses.

The Bucks leaped into the winning column with a 33-6 victory over Grandfalls Royalty High School in the third game of the season. The Rankin Red Devils were upset 28-19, and the Van Horn Eagles sustained a loss of 23-0. The Bucks won their fourth straight game of the season by downing Iraan. In a close game with McCamey, the Bucks lost their first district game. The next week they upset the Crane Golden Cranes by scoring against them. Crane, rated as tops in the district, was not supposed to be scored against in district play. The Bucks were defeated by a close margin of 13-6. In the homecoming game the Bucks defeated the Sonora Broncos and ended the season by topping Stanton 33-0.

Lionel Cordova and Elijio Leyva were selected for the all-district first team. Elijio Leyva was also the leading scorer and rusher. Honorable mentions were allotted to Tommy Weston, Lee Roberts, Doug Connor, Joe Cobos, Ruben Martinez, Orlando Sandate, Herman Gonzales, Tony Green, George Gonzales, and Joe Valenzuela.

Hardworking managers for the Bucks are Jeff Haynes, Mario Valero, Joe Haynes, and Alonzo Ramos.

Bucks go into a huddle and then fight with renewed vigor to smash the Rankin Red Devils 33-6.

Elijio Leyva breaks away from the Cranes to try for the goal line.

Dynamic coach Joe Boyd exhibits the fire and enthusiasm which has inspired the Bucks to greater team effort.

Tony Green goes down, and it's first and ten for the Bucks, as the Van Horn Eagles try unsuccessfully to curb Alpine's relentless rushing.

Sparks Bucks to spear opponents.

Elijo Leyva clears Crane blocking attempts only to be stopped short of his goal on the twenty-yard line.

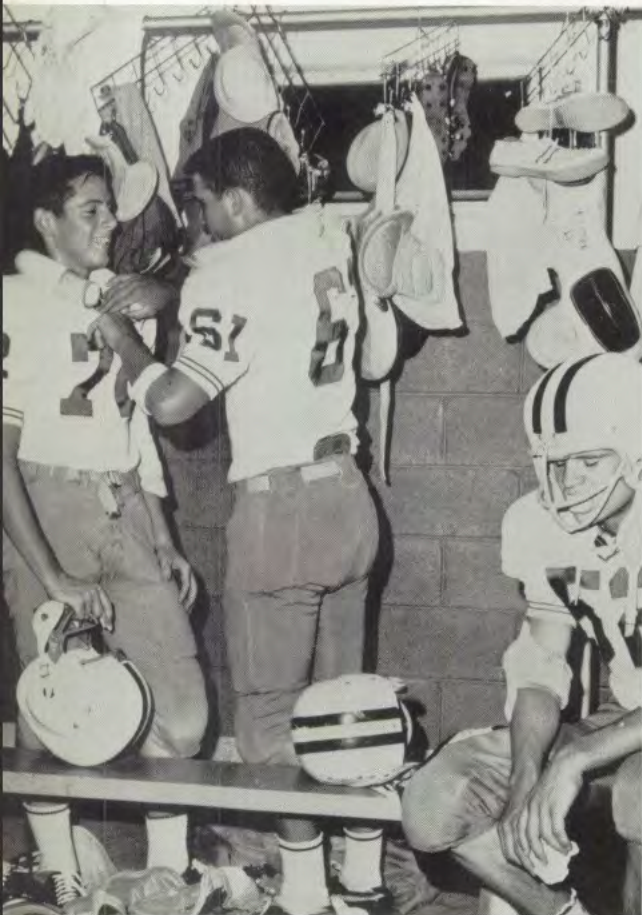

Tony Green goes down on the Eagles' line as the Bucks battle furiously for a touchdown.

Coach Burluson watches anxiously as a Crane ball carrier is downed by Esteban Rodriguez.

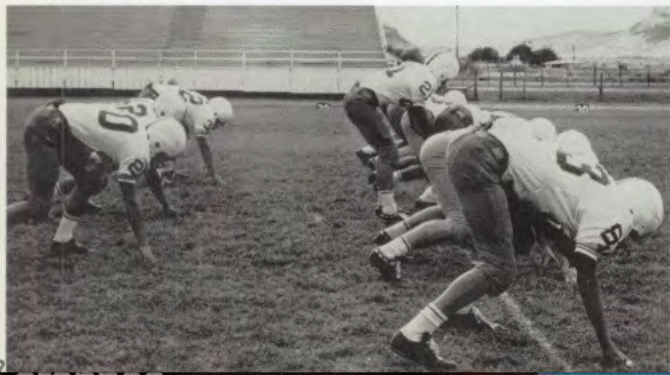

In the locker room, on the field

With the Bucks leading the Red Devils at the end of the half, Phil Newsom, Bryan LaBeff, and Doug Connor gratefully take advantage of a short respite.

Tiring afternoon work-outs aided the Bucks in executing new strategy against their adversaries.

and dexterity throughout the season.

The Crane team springs for the rebound as Alpine rushes to defend the opposite end.

Seeing a momentarily unguarded teammate, Shaw Skinner, All-District player, quickly passes the ball for a more opportune shot.

A fierce struggle for the rebounding basketball - but the opposition gains possession.

Coach John McCabe and manager George Gonzales devoted much time to training the team and maintaining equipment for the boys.

Surrounded by the A.H.S. team, a Crane ballplayer strives to pass the ball without interference.

Action in center court finds Joe Valenzuela stretching every muscle to out-jump Crane.

Alpine's basketball girls placed second in District play this year, winning four out of six district games. Brenda Roberts was named to the first all-district team, and Elisa Espinosa, Susie Payne, and Elidia Chavarria were named to the second team.

Elidia Chavarria jumps for the rebound to keep the ball away from the opposition.

Forwards on the girls "A" team are: Susie Payne, Elizabeth Adamson, Sylvia Cobos, Lory Foster, Elidia Chavarria, Bertha Ramos.

"A"-Team guards are: Brenda Roberts, Peggy Vincent, Pat Ward, Elisa Espinosa, Gay Meriwether, and Estela Lara.

Girls place second in district.

Mrs. Mickey Baird coached the girls basketball teams, and Brenda Roberts, Elidia Chavarria, and Elisa Espinosa served as co-captains.

Jumping a tie-ball against McCamey, Susie Payne leaps high to knock the ball back into friendly territory.

Elidia Chavarria passes the ball to Bertha Ramos who will try for a goal.

Alpine's Susie Payne scores two more points for the home team.

Something to Remember . . .

Your yearbook is a memorial of your life in Alpine High School so long as you care to turn back the pages of time by opening the pages of this book. For you who lived these moments, they will never die, and the pictures within may render your vision more vivid and clear.

The annual staff and I have tried to record in this volume a pictorial history of your year at A.H.S. Mr. Vernon Boysen taking pictures, Mr. Worley making annual announcements, the constant hum of activity in the annual room - all of these became familiar to you as you waited for the final product.

This annual tells a story - its setting is your school, its plot your activities, and its characters you and your fellow students. It is the story of a small school in a small community.

Last November, something happened in Dallas, Texas, which deeply affected our small community and indeed the whole world. A flag at half-mast over Alpine's Post Office symbolized the sorrow of nations.

For many of us President Kennedy's tragic death was a rude awakening to the forces of hate and prejudice and the incredible impact with which these forces revenge themselves on society.

Some of that same hate and prejudice is harbored here in Alpine High School. It is not a burden, but rather it is a challenge - a challenge for those of us who are strong enough to know our own weakness, brave enough to conquer our own fear, and dedicated enough to realize our own lack of dedication. We are the ones who must teach and exemplify love and unity toward all mankind. When this is done, our flag will once more fly at full staff over a strong and united nation.
